

The following was submitted to the city of Santa Clarita about the policys of Comcast after the AT&T Takeover.

To City of Santa Clarita,

Comcast is extorting people who use there hi speed Internet access to try to force them to get their cable service also.

Is this legal charging one price for the same Internet service for cable TV customers and charging a much higher price for those customers that do not require the cable service that is offered by a different division of the same company?

In addition I was only given 11 days notice of this change I received the letter from Comcast on 3/19/03 saying the prices were changing in April 2003. Our franchise agreement should require at least 30 days notice from when the customer receives the information not from when they decide to make the change.
